

SAVED BY CONFESSION
FROM ELECTRIC CHAIR*Jankowski Exonerated by Slayer of Gunther.Special Dispatch to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD.

OSWING, Feb. 7.—Leo Jankowski, sentenced to death for the murder of Charles J. Gunther, a guard in the tuberculosis hospital at Clinton Prison, has been exonerated of the crime in a confession made in the death house by Walter Levandowsky, it was announced at Sing Sing prison today. Levandowsky, locked on by the State's prosecutor as merely one of two who knifed the guard in an effort to escape, made his statement to Father Cushman and his own attorney when he thought he was about to die of influenza.

The Clinton hospital guard was killed last April. Both men were tried for the crime and found guilty. Physicians found them tubercular when they first were sent to Clinton and so they have been receiving treatment since they came here.

Levandowsky, under the impression that Jankowski was about to cause his death, and "in behalf of justice," as he explained to Father Cushman and the lawyer, wanted to tell all before it was too late. He gave them the story of the murder in detail, explaining that after killing the guard he forced Jankowski to saw the window bars, threatening him with death if he refused.

Gunther's relief found Jankowski sawing the bars and raised the alarm. Other guards came and the two were captured. A new trial will be asked for Jankowski, his attorney said today.
